

Recreating Hercules' Twelve Labors

After leaving his servitude of King Eurystheus, Hercules would like to have a movie recreation of his twelve labors. To honor Hercules we have contracted you to direct/write the movie for Hercules' twelve labors. Hercules wants to make sure that you get his labors absolutely correct, so you will have to write a script for each of the labors. Along with a script you must also produce this movie depicting Hercules' twelve labors. Each scene of the labor must be at least 1 minute long with some narration to tell what is happening in the scene. To help you understand the twelve labors <http://www.perseus.tufts.edu/Herakles/labors.html> is a great place to reference. Please do not use this as a script for your movie.

	10	8	6	4	0
Script	There is a complete script that contains all 12 labors and narration.	There is a mostly complete script with at least 10 labors and some narration	There is a fairly complete script with at least 8 labors and some narration	There is a somewhat complete script with at least 6 labors and no narration	There is no script.
Mechanics	There is little or no grammatical errors and the script flows well.	There are a few grammatical errors and the script flows well.	There are multiple grammatical errors and the script has some issues flowing.	There are many grammatical errors and the script has no flow.	The script is full of grammar issues and has no flow.
Time	Each scene is at least 1 minute long.	Each scene is at least 45 seconds long.	Each scene is at least 30 seconds long	Each scene is at least 15 seconds long.	Each scene is less than 15 seconds

	10	8	6	4	0
Editing	The movie is edited well and flows from one scene to the next easily	The movie is edited fairly well with 2 or 3 flaws and flows fairly easily from scene to scene	The movie is edited poorly with 4 or 5 flaws and flows harshly from	The movie is edited very poorly with 6 or 7 flaws and does not flow at all.	The movie is not edited at all.
Accuracy	The movie is accurate in that all 12 labors are depicted correctly	The movie is mostly accurate in that most of the labors are depicted correctly	The movie is somewhat accurate in that some of the labors are depicted correctly	The movie is inaccurate in that a few of the labors are depicted correctly	The movie is inaccurate in that all of the labors are inaccurate